Cape May County Prosecutor Jeffrey H. Sutherland announces an invitation to the public to attend a community presentation detailing the Opioid epidemic that is affecting Cape May County, the State, and the entire Country. This will be a joint presentation by the Cape May County Prosecutor's Office, the New Jersey Office of the Attorney General, and the Division of Criminal Justice.

Pastor Edgar D. Robinson of Christ Gospel Church graciously offered to open the doors to the "Love Center" and host this important event. The presentation will provide the community with information related to the current tragedy of opioid addiction sweeping across the country. Prescription opioid abuse has fueled heroin use and with the introduction of controlled dangerous substances such as fentanyl and carfentanil - Our community has seen a sad and rapid increase in overdoses and often times death as a direct result of these dangerous drugs.

This training will help educate the community to identify physical traits of these drugs, learn current local street lingo, identify signs of abuse and resource outlets and contacts for persons in need of recovery. The training will also cover the current state of law enforcement's role in combating this issue all while working in partnership with State, Federal and Local law enforcement agencies and partners in the addiction and recovery field.
