Un jeu: Jacques a dit

The French sometimes play a game called Jacques a dit (Jim said). The rules are the same as the English game of Simon Says. Everyone stands up to play.

The game leader says: Jacques a dit:
Les mains sur la tête! placing her hands on her head. The other players also place their hands on their heads.

Then the game leader may say: Les mains sur le dos! placing her hands on her back. This time, however, the other players should not move, because the game leader did not first say Jacques a dit. Any player that did move must sit down, but may continue playing.
